DSM US Large Cap Growth Fund

September 2010

Investment Review

The Hereford/DSM Large Cap Fund NAV appreciated 11.4% for the month of September compared to a 10.7% appreciation for the Russell 1000 Growth index and an 8.9% appreciation for the S&P500. At the end of September, the Fund was invested primarily in the health care, technology, consumer, business services, and financial services sectors, with smaller weights in the energy and materials sectors.

During the month, the Fund exceeded its benchmark, on a gross-of-expense basis by approximately 75 bps. This was primarily the result of positive stock selection in the technology, energy and financial sectors. Stock selection in the consumer discretionary sector detracted from performance. In September, the best performing positions in the portfolio were Amazon.com, NetApp, Altera, Priceline.com and F5 Networks. Adobe, McDonalds, Nestle and Colgate Palmolive were the worst performers. During the month, the Fund did not exit or initiate any positions. However, positions in Gen-Probe and Rockwell Collins were trimmed while Adobe, Allergan, Intuitive Surgical and 3M were added to.

We believe that slow growth in the developed world in the 1.0% to 2.5% range is more likely than a double-dip recession. Without a doubt, the big question is whether or not risk adverse investors have propelled the bond market into a bubble. But with rapid economic growth unlikely, and with low inflation the current trend (at least for the time being), low interest rates seem logical. The wild card will be the stock market. If investors can gain confidence in the developed world economic outlook, then developed world stock markets can appreciate over the coming year. As capital flows out of bonds and into equities, interest rates could well rise.

In response to sluggish economic growth, Federal Reserve policy makers are considering additional "quantitative easing". The persistently high unemployment rate has created much of the political impetus for this action. With high unemployment, consumer spending in the USA has been lukewarm, especially as consumers pay down debt. Housing has yet to recover, and we are not enthusiastic about near-term demand. Even if the Obama Administration makes available additional subsidies for home buyers, robust real demand does not appear to exist. Subsidies merely exacerbate the oversupply problem, and perhaps will make the situation worse.

The lone bright spot in the economic outlook is industrial activity and capital equipment spending. In fact, the discussion of additional quantitative easing has driven the dollar downward, and the dollar's decline may further improve overseas demand for industrial sector products. Strong corporate profits, cash flows and balance sheets enable corporations around the world to continue spending.

Investment Objective

The investment objective of the LCG sub fund is to provide capital appreciation principally through investments in US-based growing corporations with market capitalizations generally above 2 billion dollars. These companies are chosen for their growth prospects, attractive returns, solid business fundamentals and intelligent management. The sub fund may, on an ancillary basis, invest in US-based companies with lower market capitalizations as well as in non-US based companies. The Compartiment may invest in American Depository Receipts and American Depository Shares. The reference benchmark for this strategy is the Russell 1000 Growth Index.
